Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 07 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A fine day with the odd shower.

Today:
A fine day ahead after a chilly start. Fair-weather cloud bubbling up by the late morning, with the odd light shower expected, mostly in the east of the region. Turning breezier by the afternoon. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
Light rain in Cornwall but a fine evening elsewhere. Rain becomes widespread and heavy, accompanied by strong winds and coastal gales, progressing across the entire region by the small hours. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Saturday:
Widespread and heavy rain through the morning, easing later but persisting over high ground and far west. Drier eastwards by evening. Strong winds throughout, risk of gales in exposed areas. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Nights become milder but remaining unsettled and windy, with risks of gales in exposed areas. Showers, thundery at times into next week, merging into longer spells of rain at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.